

A Board Certified Clinical Specialist in Oncologic Physical Therapy, Jenny Bradt completed her undergraduate education at the University of Notre Dame, and her master's in physical therapy at the Mayo School of Physical Therapy in 1993, completing her transitional DPT in 2016 at The College of St. Scholastica. She began working as a physical therapist at the Mayo Clinic in 1993, specializing in lymphedema management in 1995 as the founding therapist of the Lymphedema Clinic. She has worked primarily in patient care throughout her 30-year career, being named Clinical Lead Therapist of Outpatient Cancer Rehabilitation at Mayo Clinic Rochester in 2010. She obtained her Board Specialization in Oncologic Rehabilitation in 2019 and serves on the Committee of Content Experts for the American Board of Physical Therapy Specialists.

Quality patient care motivates Jenny in her role as clinical lead, where she is charged with ensuring evidence-based practices are used by the team of therapists working in cancer rehabilitation.

She has been married for 30 years and has 3 young-adult children. Personal interests include running, biking, hiking, and coaching high school cross country and track and field.
